The percentile score can tell employer a lot about your 'cognitive reasoning level', or in other words, your ability to learn and perform new tasks quickly. After the percentile has been formed, it will then be compared to other candidates' percentile scores, namely those who happen to fall into your normative group. Numerical Reasoning Test - 18 questions to be answered in 25 minutes, or 10 questions in 15 minutes, at an assessment day. If you have any questions or need help with finding the right prep, you can always contact our 24/7 customer support team. A higher score on this sort of exam demonstrates to upper management that you have had formal educational training, while a lower score indicates that you may require more detailed instruction and supervision for learning new skills. This means that your score will be scrutinised against other applicants who match your job title, education level and more. In some cases, you might also receive a percentile score for each of the test's subjects, i.e., numerical, verbal, etc. Other score reports may also suggest your level of suitability for various positions and professions. Note: You are not likely to view your own score report - oftentimes your results go straight to the employer. The Wonderlic Personnel Test - QuickTest: 30 multiple-choice questions with a time limit of 8 minutes. Follow the instructions in the diagnostic guide to get the most out of your diagnostic testing sessions. 1) Cubiks Logiks2) MMAT - McQuaig Mental Agility Test3) GIA - Thomas International General Intelligence Assessment4) HBRI - Hogan Business Reasoning Inventory5) PLI - Predictive Index Learning Indicator6) RCAT - Revelian Cognitive Ability Tests - Mainly used in Australia7) WPT - Wonderlic Personnel Test - Mainly used in the US8) CCAT - Criteria Cognitive Aptitude Test - Mainly used in the US 5 Common Characteristics for Most Cognitive Ability Tests: They cover more than one subject.
