Li P, Du B, Chan MC, Feng X. Exhibition of human mercury, China. Pure water is insipid, odorless and transparent and therefore provides a habitat for plants and aquatic organisms, because sunlight can reach them within the water. It can therefore be concluded that any form of measure taken to inhibit the surface and groundwater will not only advance our aquatic ecosystem, but will also help man endanger his environment of the threat of climate change. Since water is a nucleus of human and other things, its preservation and sustainable availability cannot be over-stretched. 2017;539:383-39129. This water is considered to be a potential health risk for consumers or users of another type. Possessing these, it is necessary to briefly discuss what climate change is like climate change has the potential to impose additional pressures in some regions of the world. In another to get a good understanding of what climate change is, it can be better to define the climate first. Agriculture and Agricultural Sciences Procedia. It aims to provide solutions to economic, environmental and social challenges without putting a threat to future human and environmental development, that is, we should consider the future as we make current decisions. 2017;7:1-124. Many groups stop at the establishment of the antimicrobial potential of your study plant, while others go further to apply the extracts in the treatment of water. Journal of Water Process Engineering. These agencies also reiterated that climate change is a threat created from human activity to affect the human being. [67] presented that global climate change may include natural and anthropogenic influences in the terrestrial climate and the hydrologic cycle. Archer E, Petrie B.B, Wolfaardt Gm.
